Details of the Anarchy Conspirators in France.

PROF. PALMER AND PARTY DEAD.

Davitt's Denial—Examining Rebels in Egypt—Arabi Charged with Exulting in the Destruction of Christians.

[illegible] The Times publishes details of the anarchists' conspiracy. They show it is composed of a small number of staunch supporters in all towns and manufacturing villages of France. The members are mostly young men who distribute revolutionary papers. Each group has a distinct name. A letter signed by the authorities recommends that these groups should pretend to be trade unions. [illegible]

The central committee is composed of a delegate from each of the federations. It meets annually at Geneva. Letters to Prince Kropotkin [illegible] show him to be a member of the conspiracy.

The dynamite found by the authorities was manufactured at St. Sauveur, Switzerland.

The explosion of [illegible] at Amiens has produced great uneasiness.

The action of the government in expediting the trials of persons arrested in connection with the rioting at Montceau-les-Mines is much criticized.

The Emperor's Views.

[illegible] Oct. 26.—The delegations met here to-day. The emperor, in receiving members, said the moderation of all cabinets was a valuable guarantee for a satisfactory and final settlement of the Egyptian question. There was no necessity, he said, for increasing the ordinary army expenditures, but a small sum would be required for the development of organization and placing the army on a more prepared condition for war.

Carlisle and Emerson.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Prof. Tyndall unveiled a statue of Thomas Carlyle on the Thames embankment at Chelsea to-day. At the conclusion of a long address, Prof. Tyndall expressed the wish that a memorial should be raised in the same place to Ralph Waldo Emerson, the loftiest, purest and most penetrating spirit ever shown in American literature, and a lifelong friend of Carlyle.

England and France Agree.

The Times says the British government has informed France it makes no objection to an abolition of capitulations with Tunis, and the establishment of French tribunals [illegible] Great Britain, however, can permit nothing detrimental to her commercial treaty with Tunis. France has given the fullest assurances on this point and it is perfectly understood by her that whatever arrangements England may make with Egypt, the rights of French citizens shall be respected equally with those of the British.

Evidence against Arabi.

CAIRO, Oct. 26.—The prosecution commission examined Ali Bey Reshid, who during the bombardment of Alexandria commanded a guard at the law court. He states he was ordered by Suleiman and Dani Pasha to fire buildings, but he followed Arabi to Kafr El Dwar without executing the order. He was taken before Arabi, who asked him if he had obeyed. Reshid replied "Yes," through fear of Arabi. Arabi thereupon exclaimed, "Thank God, we have annihilated a great part of the Christians and their principal buildings." This evidence thus far, however, is not supported.

Preparing for Resistance.

The council of ministers have decided to instruct the governor of Soudan to hold out at Khartoum till assistance arrived. It is stated the false prophet has reached Karkaffed. The rajah is ordered to raise as many black troops as possible for service against the false prophet. Davitt Denies a Split.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Davitt, speaking at Glasgow tonight, denied there were splits in the Irish national forces. He said there were differences of opinion between Parnell and himself, but not differences of principle.

PARLIAMENT.

House of Commons.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The house of commons was crowded this afternoon. Dilke, under foreign secretary, said no convention had been concluded with Egypt for charging the cost of army occupation on the Egyptians. The Soudan, in upper Egypt, was undoubtedly disturbed, but reports were exaggerated. Great Britain had not been consulted in regard to the appointment of Baker Pasha, but the government did not object to the appointment.

Gladstone moved a vote of thanks to the commanders, officers and men of the British army in Egypt. He said he would not ask the house to commit itself to the government's policy.

Gladstone said the Indian contingent was worthy of the brotherhood in which they had entered. It would be the duty of the government to propose suitable annuities for Admiral Seymour and Gen. Wolseley, who, he said, accepted peerages. He spoke for an hour and concluded with a peroration [illegible] the country might repose [illegible] its military forces.

[illegible] question was resumed and the house by a vote of 202 to 144 rejected Wolff's amendment excluding the chairman when the house is in committee from power with the rule proposed to confer on the speaker.

House of Lords.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The lords unanimously passed a vote of thanks to the army in Egypt, and the house adjourned till November 10th.

Attorney General Brewster on the Camerons.

Attorney General Brewster is speaking for the Cameron ticket in Pennsylvania. Handbills containing the following are posted all over the state and distributed at all his meetings before speaking begins:

From a Speech by Brewster in Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1867.

Last winter our people were shocked with the election of J. Donald Cameron. He is responsible for [illegible] of whom I will not speak, because he and his acts have become a part of public history and must be measured with more deliberation than can be given in a casual conversation like this. [illegible] The public is sick of these Cameron men, and the public will do away with them. We have destroyed human bondage in the south; we will next break down political bondage in the north and south.

From a Speech in Pittsburg, Oct. 11, 1882.

Pennsylvania owes much to Donald Cameron and his father as well. [illegible] honest and wise old man of whom Pennsylvania should be justly proud. Donald Cameron has by his own efforts reached a prominent place in the public eye, and established a good position in the senate, not as a declaimer, but as a faithful and effective worker. He cannot be hurt by this election, let it go either way. If Beaver is elected, as elected he will be, Cameron will be stronger than ever. This will be the logical outcome of the argument that Beaver is Cameron's [illegible]

The Oregon Senatorial Contest.

San Francisco Alta.

The senatorial contest which has terminated in Oregon by the election of Joseph N. Dolph has been fierce and obstinate enough to be compared with some of the early contests of the kind in California during the time when Broderick was so conspicuous a figure. In the present instance the battle was carried to the last minute of the session, and only ended by a general break in the Mitchell ranks, when it was realized that the choice lay between the election of Dolph and an adjournment without election. Perhaps, in view of the after tale, the fight was not quite so desperate as it seemed, for it is possible both sides were [illegible] determined to compromise rather than throw the choice of a senator over to another session. But even regarded as a [illegible] game of hand, the struggle was an exciting one.

We congratulate no one with regard to that outcome, [illegible] harmony in the republican party of Oregon, which might have been [illegible] by Mitchell's election. [illegible] As for the eighteen independent republicans who maintained their opposition so tenaciously, we can only say that if they were actuated by sincere convictions of right, as we assume they are, they are deserving of praise for their courage and fortitude.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

[illegible] the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

In conformity with custom, the annual observance of which is justly held in honor by this people, I, Chester A. Arthur, president of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 30th day of November next, as a day of public thanksgiving.

The blessings demanded [illegible] ... that we be [illegible] united; the nation [illegible] for the [illegible] of liberty, justice and constitutional government; for the devotion of the people to our free institutions and their cheerful obedience to mild laws; for the constantly increasing strength of the republic, while extending its privileges to fellow-men who come to us; for the improved means of internal communication, [illegible] for the general prosperity of all our industries [illegible] for the liberal return for the mechanic's toil [illegible] to the abundant harvests [illegible] for the preservation of the national faith and credit; for the wise and generous provisions to effect the intellectual and moral education of our youth; for the [illegible] and transforming influence of Christianity, for the joys of home. For these and for many other blessings we should give thanks.

Wherefore I do recommend that the day above designated be observed throughout the country as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and that the people, ceasing from their daily labors and meeting in accordance with their several forms of worship, draw near to the throne of Almighty God, offering to him praise and gratitude for the manifold goodness which he has vouchsafed to us, and praying that his blessings and his mercies may continue.

And I do further recommend that the day thus appointed be made a special occasion for deeds of kindness and charity to the suffering and the needy, so that all who dwell within the land may rejoice and be glad in this season of national thanksgiving.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-sixth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and seventh.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

PLAYBOOED SHOES AGAIN.

Paris Decrees that the High-Heeled Boot for Women must Go.

Paris Letter in Boston Transcript.

A lady looks infinitely taller and slimmer in a long dress than she does in a short costume, and there is always a way of thwarting the effect, if required, by making the front quite short, which gives, indeed a more youthful appearance to a train dress. The greatest attention must, of course, be paid to the feet with these short dresses and I may here at once state that high heels are absolutely forbidden by Fashion. Doctors are [illegible] Only on thea[illegible] now made, and are only worn by common people. A good boot-maker will not make high heels now, even if paid double price to do so. Ladies—that is real ladies—now wear flat-soled shoes and boots, à la Cinderella. For morning walking, boots or high Molière shoes are worn.

If you wear boots you may wear any stockings you like, for no one will see them. But if you wear shoes you must adapt your stockings to your dress. Floss silk, Scotch thread, and even cotton stockings are worn for walking, silk stockings having returned into fashion for evening wear. The stockings should be of the same color as the dress, but they may be clocked or striped or dotted just as you please. White stockings are absolutely forbidden for day wear—no one wears them—but should wear them under fashion's interdiction.

What are Clouds?

Popular Science Monthly.

Though the clouds are such familiar objects, very little is known about them, and the processes by which they are formed and give back their moisture to the earth are involved in mystery.

They cannot be classified as belonging to the solid, fluid or gaseous form of matter. Yet they are defined as being "a collection of watery particles in the state of vapor, suspended in the air." If they are ordinary vapors, they must be governed by the laws which affect vapors. Besides, vapor, [illegible] when liquids and certain solids are heated, they become converted into elastic fluids or vapors, which differ from gases in this respect, that they are not, under common circumstances, permanently elastic, but resume the liquid or solid form when cooled down to ordinary temperature. According to this definition, clouds cannot be composed of ordinary vapor, for under no conditions the temperature must be below the condensing point of water.

At the elevations at which clouds are often seen, they are in the regions of perpetual congelation; and as they float above the loftiest mountains they are at times exposed, even in the [illegible] to a temperature [illegible] like those of the frigid zones.

BUNGLE AND BLUNDER.

Through [illegible] of [illegible] that the question was [illegible] the [illegible] policy [illegible] without [illegible] was [illegible] and the extreme [illegible] of absolute prohibition [illegible] really before the people [illegible] it was [illegible] presented that [illegible] The legislature ought to have submitted the question of license to the people in the form of an amendment to the constitution. This should have been done last year, but an effort was made instead to suppress the liquor traffic by taxes and penalties, a method which, under the peculiar constitution of Ohio, could not be sustained. So the republican party in the late contest was in a peculiar position. It was denounced by the [illegible] leaders and press as untaxed and [illegible] liquor traffic, a proceeding which massed against it the entire liquor vote of the state, and yet it was presenting the demand for license or taxation in no definite form. It was a blunder to go before the people on the liquor question without a clearly defined policy in regard to it. The republicans have paid the penalty of mismanagement, and of playing fast and loose with the question.

This has come about chiefly through the conduct of the ultra temperance men, or "impracticables," a name justly applied to prohibitionists in Ohio, because it is clear enough to every person of common judgment that prohibition cannot be carried in that state. The conditions are essentially different from those existing in such states as Iowa and Kansas, where there are no cities of importance and few towns of considerable size, and where the rural voters are strong enough to control elections. Prohibition being impossible in Ohio, the wise thing to do is to adopt measures of restriction, framed to be as complete as possible. But the "impracticables" would not have this. The republicans last year carried the legislature and elected the governor on the proposition of submitting an amendment to the constitution to provide for reasonable tax and proper supervision of the liquor traffic within the state. But they did not do it, because in the legislature there was a considerable number who would not listen to this course. The license policy they declared to be a shameful compromise with sin; and instead of carrying out in good faith the policy to which the party was pledged, they substituted a series of acts against the liquor traffic, which the courts have since pronounced unconstitutional and void. While these acts had no effect whatever upon the liquor traffic they however united the liquor men in solid force against the republican party; and the democrats, with no record and no pledges on the subject, got the benefit of the republican mismanagement of it. On a plain and direct issue there can be no doubt, however, that the proposition to amend the constitution so as to license and tax the liquor traffic would carry in Ohio, and, as the republicans still have the legislature, which was elected last year and will soon hold another session, they would do well to pass an act to submit such amendment to the people, without delay. But perhaps the extremists will again prevent this, and thereby still further obstruct the policy of practicable restriction and regulation.

The course of wisdom in all political action is to get the best results which the circumstances will allow. It may be wise to strive for prohibition in one state and unwise in another. In a state like Ohio where the most complete attainable measure of restriction is to be reached through license and regulation, the policy of license and regulation ought to be employed. Between vain efforts to prohibit on the one hand and the desire of the drink-sellers to maintain free trade in liquors on the other, Ohio has lost during thirty years from two to three millions of annual revenue which might have been collected for maintenance of local government, and whisky has had free course. Extremes have met in practical co-operation, and the consequence has been unlimited drink-selling, without payment of revenue and without regulation of law.

Gov. Foster has said since the election to those who have complained that the agitation of the liquor question had lost the state to the republican party, that he believed the policy of the party to be correct, and that it was no time to change it. This is courageous; but it ought to have been coupled with the statement that the policy of the party on the subject be made clear and distinct, so as to get the questions at issue directly before the people. It is the work of political blunderers to miss the mark so far. True, Gov. Foster and his associates were hampered by the schemes of the "impracticables"; but even under this disadvantage they ought to have kept steadily before the people the original proposition to amend the constitution for license and regulation. This will undoubtedly carry in Ohio, but no act of prohibition will. As for the democratic party, which has been crying so loudly over its "victory," it has won nothing whatever that can be of permanent value to it. It declared no principle, it announced no policy, and can't now tell what it has won. There is nothing gained on which it can go to the country in future contests. It is groping blindly, willing to adopt any dogma that promises it local support, but never laying hold of a sure principle. No person of sound judgment needs to be told that results like this in Ohio will never lead that party up to a national triumph. Not one of the conditions of a national triumph was presented in the stand of the democratic party in the Ohio election.

When the constitution was adopted in 1789 the ratio of representation for members of congress was one representative to each 30,000 of population. The house of representatives had at that time sixty-five members. Under the first census the ratio was increased from March 4, 1793, to 33,000, giving 105 members; under the second the ratio was the same, but from March 4, 1803, there were 141 members; under the third it was increased from March 4, 1813, to 35,000, giving 181 members; under the fourth, from March 4, 1823, to 40,000, giving 213 members; under the fifth, from March 4, 1833, to 47,700, giving 240 members; under the sixth, from March 4, 1843, to 70,680, giving 223 members; under the seventh, from March 4, 1853, to 93,423, giving 231 members; under the eighth, from March 4, 1863, to 127,381, giving 243 members; under the ninth, from March 4, 1873, to 131,425, giving 293 members, and under the tenth, from March 4, 1883, to 151,911, giving 325 members. There will be under the new apportionment five times the ratio of population to representation that ruled in 1789; that is to say, while we had in 1789 one representative to every 30,000 people, we now have one to every 151,911 people. And yet, so wonderfully populous has the nation become that we shall have [illegible] as many representatives.

[illegible] New England voices rise [illegible] modification of the tariff to secure lower prices. The [illegible] Republican, intelligent [illegible] reduction of duties [illegible] Manufacturers [illegible] country requires [illegible]

According to the Salt Lake Tribune there are in Utah from 30,000 to 40,000 persons in polygamy, of whom one-fourth are men. The Mormon population of Utah is about 120,000, of whom upwards of 60,000 are children under eight years of age.

STEAMERS VS. SAILING VESSELS.

It is [illegible] steamers [illegible] perhaps [illegible] Is it [illegible] A wooden sailing ship of [illegible] tonnage can be constructed in Maine at an expense of about $[illegible] per ton [illegible] [illegible] sailing ships [illegible] register [illegible] original cost [illegible] A circular [illegible] year or two [illegible] demand at good paying rates [illegible] steamers have been built so that the supply is now in excess of the demand.

It is shown that steamers, even for long voyages, do not command much higher rates of freight than those paid to sailing vessels. The only loss through shipping and sail, particularly the coarser forms of freight, is that of interest during the additional time; and this is so small that for all practical purposes there is no difference in the volume of freight money received by the respective owners of steam and sailing tonnage on long voyages. It thus becomes simply a question of expense. The advantage held by the steamer is that she can make nearly two voyages while the sailing ship is making one; the advantage held by the sailing ship is the small expense at which she can be run. The latter advantage is proving to be greater than the former.

A New York journal says that merchants have been dazzled away by the idea that the day of the sailing vessel was over, and hence very few of these have been built, while the output of new steam tonnage has been enormous. Another improvement in marine engines, which shall correspond in importance to the discovery of the method which goes by the name of the compound engine, would enable steamers to ply over the longest ocean routes, and take the cheapest forms of cargo with profit to their owners, but until this improvement is discovered their area of usefulness is limited. The English builders have argued that with existing methods the sailing vessels would be driven from the long routes by steamers as effectually as they had been driven from the short routes. The experience of the last year or two has shown that in these estimates they were over-sanguine, and hence it would not be strange if the next year building returns should exhibit a decline in the amount of steam tonnage built in Great Britain and an increase in the amount of sailing tonnage.

The San Francisco Bulletin is of opinion that the coming merchant ship will be a sailing vessel supplied with auxiliary steam. With moderate consumption of coal she could go, say, from San Francisco to Liverpool in about 80 days, which would be profitable if she could carry 4000 tons over her coal supply. The Bulletin says that vessels of this kind are now under construction at Bath, Maine, and it believes we shall be able to ship wheat from this coast to England by these "auxiliary steamers."

From the report of the bureau of statistics it appears that the number of immigrants arrived in the United States during the calendar year 1881 was 720,047, being much larger than during any preceding year. It exceeded the population of the state of Connecticut by 97,345; the population of Maine by 71,109; the population of Nebraska by 267,343; the population of Vermont by 387,759; the population of New Hampshire by 373,054; the population of West Virginia by 101,588, and the population of Rhode Island by 443,514; and it was less by only 127,417 than the aggregate population of the states of Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Nevada and Oregon. It also exceeded by 113,226 the aggregate population of all the territories of the United States exclusive of the district of Columbia.

A great industrial enterprise—the greatest ever proposed for Oregon—is now definitely announced as about to be undertaken. For a year or more preparations have been making for the organization of a great company to establish iron works on a grand scale at Oswego. The property has now been secured, the company organized, and a resolution adopted to erect as soon as possible extensive smelting works and rolling mills. The names of the capitalists who have undertaken it are a sufficient guarantee of its success. It is by all odds the most important industrial enterprise yet undertaken in the northwest.

Says the Oregon City Enterprise: "We believe the eighteen were right and that time will vindicate them. Indeed the result has vindicated them." This from a so-called republican paper. On the other hand, a degraded organ, which claims to be the leading democratic paper of the state, but which is held in utter contempt by the respectable portion of its own party, pursues day by day its lamentation for the defeat of Mitchell, coupled with the silly prediction that it will prove the "destruction" of the republican party. It is so sorry, of course. Its stupidity, not to say dishonesty, is inconsolable.

Should not faithfulness have its reward? For instance, should not Hon. D. M. C. Gault have a place in the postoffice? Wait and see.

CITY.

DEBUT IN OPERA.—Those who heard Mrs. [illegible] during the Rice-King concerts will [illegible] interest the following from the San Francisco [illegible]: quite a large audience assembled at [illegible] evening to enjoy the debut of Miss M[illegible] upon the lyric stage (under the [illegible] Miss Johnston) in the leading role [illegible] of Normoor." She appeared under [illegible] so far as her support was concerned [illegible] was absent from illness [illegible] and his part of Ashton was taken [illegible] at short notice. Nevertheless [illegible] the execution of her music that [illegible] has so often delighted us on the concert [illegible] and being a certain [illegible] under the circumstances [illegible] with [illegible] is less difficult features [illegible] the audience. Miss Johnston has [illegible] the beginning of a new career.

BODIES FOUND.—Particulars [illegible] Chinamen in the Columbia river [illegible] about two weeks ago, were given [illegible] They were laborers on the railroad and, at the time of the drowning, were crossing the river [illegible] to the Washington territory side. [illegible] of the stream the Chinamen became [illegible] unable to manage their little craft. The [illegible] of Chinese to which these belonged [illegible] search for their bodies, manifesting a dread [illegible] interest in their recovery. Wednesday [illegible] blue was seen to rise [illegible] surface near Cape Horn, and upon investigation [illegible] found to be the body of one of the drowned [illegible] The other two bodies were [illegible] the place at which the first was found. Upon [illegible] was found something over [illegible] in greenbacks.

[illegible] HOME.—The case of that seven-year-old [illegible] Alice Brown, which was thought to have [illegible] through the courts, has broken [out] in a fresh place. She is the waif who made [illegible] to sundry residences and told [illegible] heart-rending stories about [illegible] of her stepmother, Mrs. C. H. Brown. [illegible] the child is a natural born [illegible] the child into the legal custody of [illegible] who placed her in the Home, where she [illegible] and happy. Now comes Brown [illegible] circuit court and swears that his daughter [illegible] held and imprisoned by the said [illegible] and others of an alleged humane society. [Upon] this petition Judge Stott caused a writ of [habeas corpus] to be issued, requiring Mr. [illegible] the child in court to-morrow.

[illegible] CASE.—In the Van Damme trial yes[terday a] number of witnesses were examined for [the] prosecution and the defense, the former [illegible] examination. The defense will con[tinue to]-day, after which the jury will pro[ceed to] Portland to view the premises upon [which the] shooting occurred. Van Damme, the de[fendant], never having had any trouble with [illegible] disclaims all knowledge of the shoot[ing] [illegible] the cause so nearly losing her life, or [illegible] it was done. His was the last ex[amination] yesterday. Van Damme was moved to [illegible] by his own narrative of particu[lars] [illegible].

[illegible] HOODLUMS.—A gang of five lads, [illegible] 16 years, was arrested this morning [at] one o'clock, while taking a peaceful [illegible] of some old buildings on the river [illegible] this coterie of youthful hoodlums [illegible] thieves, pickpockets, lock-breakers and [illegible] of various other classes of petty [illegible] frequently arrested for committing [illegible] offending common decency, [illegible] depraved lads will ultimately bring up, [illegible] visited with greater severity than [illegible] been, is not a difficult problem.

[illegible] BALL.—Turn Halle was the scene of [illegible] last night, the annual charity ball [illegible] of the Home. The room was well [illegible]; there was ample space for [illegible] was good; the lunch, prepared [by the] Ladies' Relief Society, was excellent, [illegible] were attentive, and best of all, [illegible] a neat balance to the credit of the [illegible] to note as evidence of appre[ciation] [illegible] society and its efforts, that every [illegible] in the city was represented. [illegible]

[illegible]—Mr. Jensen, of the firm of Wi[illegible], East Portland, met with quite a se[rious accident yes]terday morning while en route to [illegible] load of brick. AMUSEMENTS.

The "Lights o' London" was given for the fourth time last night to a closed house. This evening will be the souvenir gift, every one present receiving a handsomely engrossed programme. To-morrow, the only matinee performance of this play.

We are pleased to note that the suggestion to Manager Stechhan, that an improved order of stage settings and appointments would be appreciated by the public, has been acted upon, and last evening the various scenes were brightened and the interest increased by the addition of a larger number and more appropriate articles of furniture. Mr. Chadbourne, of F. S. Chadbourne & Co., speaking of the "Banker's Daughter," which is to be produced next week, and which he has witnessed in San Francisco, and one which he is very enthusiastic, said he appreciated the enterprise of Mr. Stechhan in assuming the arduous task attendant upon bringing a company of this kind to Portland, and the expense necessary in producing plays of this order, and he promised something superb and elegant in the way of new furniture for the "Banker's Daughter." With Manager Stechhan's enterprise, Mr. Ben Teal's taste in and talent for stage management and Messrs. Chadbourne & Co.'s experience in furnishing stage settings, they having had the business of the California and Baldwin theatres for many years, the opinion prevails that there is a theatrical boom ahead, and that the day of snap shows is passed for Portland.

EVIDENCE AGAINST OWENBY.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

POMEROY, W. T., Oct. 26.—The preliminary examination of Canada Owenby, who was arrested Tuesday for the murder of E. H. Cummins, closed to-day. The evidence is all circumstantial. The principal evidence was that he had disbursed large sums of money recently and could not account for its possession, was a poor man, frequently hauled freight from New York bar, where the murder was committed, and since his arrest had made frequent attempts to bribe the guard to aid him escape or swear that he was elsewhere at the time of the murder. He was held to answer at the next term of the district court at Dayton and will be taken to jail to-morrow.

Oats quiet at [illegible]

Barley is firm at [illegible]

Hay continues in good demand, the price of good baled timothy at [illegible] ton.

Cured meats in sympathy with the fresh meat market rule higher. [illegible] hams being quotable at 17@18c; [illegible] shoulders 13@14c.

Lard shows slight tendency to advance. Quotations are [illegible]

Apples—Choice varieties in attractive shape are wanted and would bring good prices. [illegible] are quoted at [illegible] box.

Hops are still having a boom. [illegible] eastern markets have reached very high figures and the local market reciprocates the feeling. The market is firm at 62c ₩ lb.

Butter shows a tendency to decline, owing to increasing stocks in hands of commission merchants. Prices favor buyers, some [illegible] choice selling at 36c ₩ lb. We quote good to choice rolls, [illegible] fair, 20@22½c. In bulk, 20@25c, brine [illegible]. A fancy article will bring a higher price.

Eggs are still scarce and quotable at [illegible] ₩ doz.

Chickens—Quotable at $4 50 ₩ doz for good specimens; ordinary sizes, $[illegible] 50.

Potatoes come in slowly and are quoted at [illegible] ₩ ctl.

Wool shows little change and is quoted at [illegible] for valley; eastern, 17@20c.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS.

The freight market is dull and no apparent demand for vessels. There is little disengaged tonnage in port, and charters are firm. Market is quotable at 52s 6d for wood to Cork, U. K., with possibly a continental option.

THE ENGLISH GRAIN MARKET.

The Mark Lane Express in its weekly review of the British grain trade the past week says wet weather has stopped sowing operations and hindered threshing and marketing. Wheat sampled which have come to hand are in bad condition. Prices in the London market are unchanged. Provincial markets have improved one shilling for fair qualities on account of inquiry for seed wheat. Foreign wheat is unimproved. Supplies are moderate and altogether trade is dull and if anything weaker. Off coast market is inanimate, except for number 2 red winter wheat, which has advanced two shillings. Trade in forward is steady at one shilling advance. Floating bulk continues to decrease because of the steamships in American Atlantic ports. This does not however affect the market. Flour is quiet and unchanged. Foreign flour is in restricted supply and trade is slow although prices are upheld. Barley is steady. Foreign barley is dull and rather weaker. Oats are unchanged. Imports of foreign oats are moderate and prices a shilling better. Maize has improved and there has been a further advance of six pence. Sales of English wheat the past week 54,[illegible] quarters at 39s 7d per quarter, against [illegible] quarters at 47s 3d the corresponding period last year.

Maritime Miscellany.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—The British ship Oberon arrived at this port to-day, 62 days from Sydney, Australia. On her passage from England to Sydney very heavy stress of weather was experienced and several tremendous seas were shipped. The helmsman had to be lashed to the wheel, and when relieved had nearly perished with cold. During a rush of water Capt. England was swept overboard and drowned, and the vessel narrowly escaped foundering.

Wheat and Corn Exports.

T. C. Harris, of Chicago, is considered one of the best authorities in this country on wheat. In a letter published in the San Francisco Post he says:

From late papers from London, which are devoted entirely to grain interests, giving an account of their crops and threshings, also of the continental crops, I am inclined to believe their crops have been very largely overestimated, especially in France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Holland, Belgium, Western Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Norway. The purchases and shipments at our Atlantic cities, and especially the continental purchases on the London market of cargoes consigned to Cork for orders, also of wheat shipped from East Indian and Russian ports consigned to London houses and included in quantity afloat to Great Britain, but ships instructed to call at Malta and Gibraltar for orders, the wheat sold on the London market and ships ordered from there to continental cities, I should think would not continue as large unless their crops were threshing out very poorly. The stocks in all the importing cities of western Europe are quite small, although their imports have been and continue quite large, one city in France taking weekly 600,000 bushels. You see from Wednesday's dispatch the quantity afloat to the continent growing smaller weekly, though we have been shipping from our Atlantic cities 2,000,000 bushels weekly. The quantity afloat from Russia on September 28th was only 113,000 qrs. and from the East Indian ports 100,000 qrs. This convinces me that they are more dependent on American wheat than we have any idea of. The total quantity afloat from the Danubian section is only 19,300 qrs. Austria and Hungary have not sufficient for export to supply the city of Marseilles. The following was the distribution of the exports of wheat and corn from New York for the week ending October 10th: The figures are interesting:

THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is situated next to Albina, and between and fronting on both the extension of Fourth street, East Portland, and the Vancouver road. All the lots in Blocks 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 are 50x120 feet, with twenty-foot alleys through the blocks. All the other lots are 50x100 feet. The streets are wide and have all been cleared, while the lots are high and level and can be very easily cleared.

We now offer for sale for a short time a limited number of these Lots and Blocks at reasonable prices and on easy terms. THE ALBINA HOMESTEAD is unquestionably the best field for investment and the most desirable place for location now on the market. Its close proximity to the cities of Portland and East Portland, and to the heavy improvements now being carried out by the various companies under the direction of Mr. Villard—the Dry Docks, Elevators, Machine Shops and other works of these companies—its nearness also to the Albina Ferry, together with the proposed Multnomah Railway from I street Ferry, in E. Portland, and from Albina, will make this property accessible from all parts of these cities. These advantages will necessarily attract a large population, and in the meantime make this the most popular and valuable suburban property in this vicinity, while in the near future it must furnish homes for the rapidly increasing population of Albina, and then its value will be at least five times what we now offer it for. The property and full information given to all who may apply to
